

The California Almond Sustainability Program

The California Almond Sustainability Program (CASP) was designed to promote sustainable farming in a way that works for the business of almond growing—using practices that are economically viable, based on scientific research, common sense, and a respect for the environment to grow a plentiful, nutritious, and safe food product.

Almond growers have been focused on efficient resource use for years. Until now, there has been no organized way to document your efforts and those of almond growers statewide. With your participation, CASP will equip the California Almond growing community with up-to-date data to use when talking to regulators and the public. But more importantly, it allows us to document the environmental and social practices of almond growers throughout the state so that we can keep food companies around the globe coming back for more almonds from the grower community they trust. Attend an upcoming workshop, relax with fellow growers, and Stand Tall in the California Almond community by telling your story as a participant in the California Almond Sustainability Program.

WANT TO KNOW MORE?

Stop by the Almond Board of California booth in the Tent.

Be sure to ask for details on when and where the next workshop will be held.

sustainability@almondboard.com
209.343.3230

Help the California Almond Business STAND TALL
Be a part of the California Almond Sustainability Story

